

North American Industry Classification System (NAICS) Codes

What is NAICS?

The North American Industry Classification System is a system for classifying business establishments. Adopted in 1997 to replace the old Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) system, NAICS is the industry classification system used by U.S. statistical agencies.

Instructions:

Step 1. From list below, find the sector category that best describes your type of business.

Step 2. Find the corresponding code to the left of your category. The code represents the first two digits of your NAICS code. For example, if your business description falls under "Construction", the corresponding code is 23.

The following are the 20 broad sectors:
